

Guidelines for Research Paper Writing

Divide your work in following sections: -

1. Title: - Choose a title; it is defining your work in one or two line.
2. Abstract: - Define your complete work in 200 to 250 words, It includes the details about what is your problem, how you solve it, how it is better than other.
3. Keyword: - It includes the four to five words / terms that will be mainly used / repeated in your paper.
4. Introduction: - This section includes the details about previous technology (Literature Summary) of your work or fundamental concepts, the knowledge of these concepts are required to understand your work.
5. Literature Review: - Literature review should provide a synthesis of the literature as mandatory contribution. A literature review provides both a comprehensive synthesis and an interpretation of the body of knowledge of a specified domain.
6. Methodology: - This section includes the details about your proposed work. This section includes the details about your Algorithms, flowchart, Technique, technology etc.
7. Result: - In this section you explain all the result of your work in the form of table, graph, figure, case study, chart etc.
8. Discussion / Analysis: - In this section you explain analysis part of your work in the form of table, graph, figure, case study, chart etc. with the previous techniques. In this section you may also include the application and feature scope of your work.
9. Conclusion: - In section you conclude your paper.
10. References: - In this section you include all the list of references that is used in your paper in APA format.

Note - Paper must be 3000-5000 words